

NEWS

Penn Community collects 800 pounds of food for local food pantries

erly of Horsham, 80.
 Leilani Kersteter. as the son of Oscar was a beloved husband-grandfather.
 ters, Donna Walsh (Hal); his grandchildren, and Samantha; ends very much. He wife, the love of his Nothing gave him ters, he thought the proud of his grand-in-law he could not e care of his daugh-wn High School in ool was Trade Pre-ide of auto mechan-ed working on cars erated Jenkintown after 25 plus years, e and enjoyed work-ring on the Phillies, ome where he lived rd worker and you room, cutting the putting something e which he built. If ay K" would always r).

n playing Glenside n league and played d belonged to the ge #400, in Jenkin-Pennsylvania Army s-serve.

ughter, humor and are now with the All our love.
 eceived after 10 un-1 a.m. on Saturday, ome, 216 York Rd., onic Service. Interake a donation to a ory of Thomas F.

Decker Funeral Home, Warminster
 .deckerfuneralhome.com

etary Plots
 To List your:
 etery Plot for Sale
 Customer Care Rep at 1-866-938-3010

Death ends
 a life,
 not a

Penn Community Bank, with the help of customers, team members and the community, collected nearly 800 pounds of food to donate to families across Bucks County and the region this holiday season. Food for the Feed a Neighbor food drive was collected at all 24 of Penn Community Bank's branches leading up to the holidays. It was then donated to the Bucks County Opportunity Council for distribution among more than 30 food pantries across the county. From left: Renee Schoeller and Natalie Tapykoff. [COURTESY OF PENN COMMUNITY BANK]

Rotary Club of Central Bucks donates to Bucks for Kids

Bucks for Kids recently received a donation of $1,500 from Rotary Club of Central Bucks at its annual pub crawl. Several other children's charities also received donations. Bucks for Kids, a volunteer-run organization, will use the funds to provide kids and teens served by Bucks County Children and Youth with enrichment activities such as sports teams, music lessons, academic tutoring, clothing, summer camp and college scholarships. From left: Deana Corrigan of Covenant Church/Bikes for Kids; Christine Gunsiorowski of TOPP Foundation; Nancy Larkin-Taylor of Bucks for Kids; and Jennifer Statler of Rotary Club of Central Bucks. [COURTESY OF BUCKS FOR KIDS]